EDITORIAL

By JOAN GREGORY

"Before I moved to Carmel Valley thirty years ago, I searched throughout the country for the kind of place I wanted to make a permanent home for myself and for my family. Now, with the development that's already taken place and the plans projected for the future, I feel trapped. Too old and too familiar with the area to move, I'm gradually being robbed of the privacy and serenity for which I came."

This cry of distress encountered last week during a casual conversation with a Valley gentleman seems to capture in its brief form the gist of scores of communications heard recently in the Valley. "Quo vadis?" Valleyites murmer, their hands covering their eyes.

Changes are inevitable, we all know. And growth is still a part of the American dream that we seem unable to awaken from, regardless of the consequences.

While the law prevents the shutting and fortifying of the Village gates (and the health of the community in the long-run cautions against such a policy), there must be something that concerned citizens can do to ensure more effective quality as well as quantity control for Carmel Valley than the county seems willing or able to accord.

Local residents are powerless, really, many have said. Maybe.

Perhaps its the wide-eyed optimism of youth, but it appears that the community has now been offered an opportunity to play a vital role in guiding and controlling the growth of their Valley. The kind of involvement offered is not on a citizens' committee which will make recommendation to the county board of supervisors, not on an advisory board, not on an independent, residents' coffee clutch.

Carmel Valley residents have been asked to assume active roles in a carrying capacity study for the Valley to be conducted with federal money and brainpower assistance.

With the proposal offered by Dr. Harold Chatland of the National Science Foundation during a recent CVPOA meeting, Valleyites will have a chance to participate in a somewhat revolutionary study, in terms of the community involvement and game strategy proposed, certainly a timely study, and more than likely, a time-consuming study. This could be the most important game that the participants ever play. If they choose to play.

Aside from the nourishment of community strength, which wide-ranging involvement by individuals and representatives of diverse interests in the Valley and on the Peninsula is likely to facilitate, the compilation and dispersion of accurate facts about the Valley and its environs will be ample reward for any efforts invested in the game-study.

No doubt obstacles will be encountered when attempts are made to carry out, through actual policies, the determinations made during the study. But we'll be in a whole new ballpark by that stage of the game.

public hearings

Board of Supervisors: The board will meet in the county courthouse in Salinas on Tuesday, April 30 to consider adoption of a house numbering plan for Carmel Valley from Scarlett Road to and including Las Tulares subdivision, and to hear an appeal filed by Natural Development seeking to reverse a decision by the zoning administrator to deny a variance within the Camp Carmel subdivision. Hearing of an appeal on the Meharry Development Co.'s 162-unit motel project, previously set for next Wednesday, has been continued for four weeks.

CVPOA: The Carmel Valley Property Owners' Association will meet next Wednesday, May 1 to further explore the possibility of a community conducted carrying capacity study for the Valley. Dr. Harold Chatland of the National Science Foundation, with his team of researchers from the University of California, Davis, will be guest speaker. The meeting will be held in the Middle School Library beginning at 8 p.m.

Community life

Mrs. Strathmeyer appointed

Carmel Valley's Nancy Strathmeyer has been appointed acting chairman of the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee. In taking over the post previously held by Harry Clarkson of Salinas, Mrs. Strathmeyer has become the first woman to achieve this distinction, according to Pat Patterson, 25-year veteran member of the committee.

A realtor in the Mid Valley area, Mrs. Strathmeyer was vice chairman of the committtee for the Monterey Peninsula, serving alongside Vice Chairman Kelly Bernard, who is continuing his work in the Salinas Valley. The acting chairman will serve until the committee's reorganizational meeting in July, when a permanent chairman and committee members will be elected for the next two year. Mrs. Strathemeyer has indicated that she will run for the post of chairman.

"The job of the Democratic Central Committee chairman is an administrative one, handling all of the housekeeping chores of the party between elections. Now, of course, with the primaries coming up on June 4, we have our work cut out for us."

Scholarships awarded

Three Valleyites were among the nineteen students from Carmel High School who received scholarship grants from the State of California last week. Christine Bottaro of Village Drive, Kathy Simpson of Sage Road, and Sheryl Swiess of River Road were awarded grants to assist in meeting the costs of tuition and fees at the college of their choice. High school grades and test scores were among the criteria used in selecting winners from among more than 40,000 California applicants.

Carmel students receiving grants included Susan Anderson, Michael Carson, Dan Curran, Diana Giusi, Cynthia Goble, John Jinishian, Karen Limov, Karen McCurry, Elizabeth McGinley, Joseph Mello, Kay Miyamoto, Evelyn Mizuno, Lawson Robinson, Thomas Snyder, Francis Toldi and Diane Young.

Otis cited for outstanding service

An award for outstanding service and courtesy to customers was made recently to Valleyite Bradley Otis by Safeway Stores, Incorporated. Employed by the firm since 1971, Otis was recently transferred from the Marina unit where he was head clerk, to the Safeway store in the Mid Valley Shopping Center. He is a native of Portland, Oregon.

Also honored were Jerry Raschella, native of Salinas, who now lives in King City, and seven other Safeway employes. All were presented with merchandise prizes and special badges designating them as members of Safeway's Courtesy Club.

Teachers ask school board for 14.2 per cent increase

The teachers in the Carmel Unified School District asked the board of trustees for cost of living adjustments to their salaries totaling 14.2 per cent last night.

The Certificated Employes Council, which represents teachers in the district, asked for an 8.2 per cent increase in salary to cover the increased cost of living from March 1973 to March 1974.

The council also asked for an additional increase of 6 per cent to cover projected costs of living increases from April 1974 to October 1974. The board was asked to pay the increased cost of living retroactively to March of 1973.

Also requested by the teachers was the assumption by the district of all increased costs in health and dental premiums for district employes and for one dependent.

The board of trustees accepted the request as an informational item and will consider it further before taking any action.

Lewis DiStefano, chairman of the teachers' finance committee, told the board that increases in the cost of living as measured by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics amounted to 8.2 per cent in the San Francisco Bay Area between March of 1973 and March of 1974. This amounts to a loss of $1,120 in buying power for the average teacher, he said.

"The committee requests an increase in salary so that teachers may maintain their past position in purchasing power of goods and services," DiStefano said. "This increase, if granted, would not be realized until October, 1974.

"This delay between our negotiated cost of living adjustment in salary and the actual payment of that adjustment has become a major problem because of the rapid rise in the cost of living during the past year."

The board was told there is a maximum delay of 18 months from the beginning of the interval (March 31, 1973 to Oct. 1, 1974) until teachers obtain money from cost of living increases. DiStefano also said there is a minimum of six months from the end of the interval (March 31, 1974 to Oct. 1, 1974) until teachers get any funds for increased cost of living.

In other business, the board approved a proposal by the district administrative staff to seek $32,000 in state funds for the expansion of an early childhood education program from the K-1 to K-3 levels at Carmel River School next year.

If the funds are approved for the program, it will mean payment to the district of slightly less than double the amount the district received this year. Even if the extra funds are not approved, the district has been assured of continued funding of $17,875 for the K-1 early childhood education program next year.

The board also approved the application, on a consolidated basis, by the district for Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Title I and Title II funds for the 1974-75 school year. The entitlements of the district are for $18,756 at Tularcitos in Title I School and $1,891 in Title II for school libraries.

After considerable debate, the board decided to adopt a motion by Trustee Fran Gaver concerning the district's requirements for biology courses at the high school level. Trustees gave their consent to a proposal to allow one semester of Biology 1 and one semester of Physical Science as a prerequisite to Biology 2, or the entire year of Biology 1 as a prerequisite to Biology 2.

The board also heard a report on the proposed 15-15-6 plan, in which the current two 18-week semesters at Carmel High School would be changed to two 15-week semesters, and one six-week semester.

Some of the arguments against the proposal are that development of new courses would be time-consuming, additional funds would be needed, students might slacken in their work during the last part of the 18-week courses, and scheduling of students would be more time consuming.

Arguments in favor of the system are that the high school might reap the benefits of better student motivation, the plan would provide the opportunity for remedial work, the short semester would be better for some subject matter, and students seem to be in favor of the proposal.

The 15-15-6 plan was an informational item and will be considered further by the board before any action is taken.

Bay School rehabilitation reaffirmed by school trustees

By ROBERT MISKIMON

Carmel Unified School District trustees reaffirmed their commitment last night to rehabilitate Bay School to California state earthquake safety standards.

The board re-opened a lengthy discussion of the merits of spending funds for the repair and maintenance of the "little red schoolhouse" which is located in a grove of trees on the ocean side of Highway 1. After considerable debate, the baord decided to accept a gift of $9,500 toward rehabilitation of the school raised by the Bay School Parents Organization.

Trustees also appointed the architectural firm of Keeble and Rhoda to rehabilitate the school.

Trustee James Miller asked whether acceptance by the board of the gift required the district to complete the rehabilitation of the old schoolhouse, the chastised fellow board members for their determination to be "in the historic preservation business."

Miller objected to the fact the estimated cost of rehabilitating the school has risen in the last year from some $20,000 to the current figure of $50,000.

"It appears we're talking about a replica now," Miller said. "A $40,000 investment by the district is more than we were talking about a year ago when the estimated cost was $20,000. I don't think the school district should be in the historic preservation business."

Supt. Harris Taylor said the district could levy a permissive override tax without approval of voters in the district for the specific purpose of bringing the school up to state earthquake safety standards.

Taylor also said the gift of $9,500 from the parents could be accepted by the district with a condition that it would be returned to them in the event the district was unable to complete the repair of Bay School.

President Pamela Smith argued in favor of rehabilitation.

"This is more than a semtimental thing--it's a going school and it's been highly successful for years," she said. "It's a fine training ground for the parents in the district, as well as for the children.

"One of the things we pride ourselves on in this community are the old, historic sites. It's a real value to this community, and we can justify bringing it up to Field Act standards on educational reasons alone."

Taylor told the board the rehabilitation of the school through a permissive tax override would amount to about three cents per $100 assessed valuation on the tax rate. Since the district tax rate is expected to decrease by 25 per cent next year because of the effects of new school finance laws, the net effect, if the override tax were levied, would be a decrease in the district tax rate of $2.687 to $2.467--or about 22 cents.

"Will this school be needed 10 years from now?" asked Trustee Charles Snorf.

"I think so," replied Taylor. "There is a great emphasis being placed on early childhood education now througout the state."

Under the direction of Mrs. Rosa Doner, the district has operated Bay School for a number of years as an early childhood education project, in which parental participation and learning is stressed.

"The building, even if they were rehabilitated, would not be a particularly good educational facility," Miller said.

Mrs. Smith said it is important "to save the things that are good about this community," and asked whether it would be possible, should the district elementary school enrollment drop drastically, to combine all district early childhood facilities.

Miller said he didn't think it proper for the trustees to levy a permissive tax override when taxpayers in the district recently gave a resounding "no" vote to a $5 million bond proposal for the rehabilitation of Carmel High School for use as a middle school.

"I think keeping a highly successful program at that school is worth two or three cents on the tax rate," said Trustee Richard Wilsdon.

Taylor pointed out that it would probably be a matter for the courts to decide, whether the district would have to turn over the land on which Bay School is situated if it is no longer used as a school site, since there is a reversionary clause written into the contract by which the district uses the site.

"If we don't bring this up to Field Act standards, under no circumstances could it be used as a school facility," said Mrs. Smith.

"I think we should spend the two or three cents," said Trustee Fran Gaver. "It's a modest investment for an important value."

Possible environmental hazards cited in Laguna Robles study

Possible ecologic and geologic hazards are cited in the environmental impact report on Laguna Robles, a 22-single story unit residential project proposed for Carmel Valley. The report report, prepared by the County Planning Commission, a formal determination at a public hearing on May 3 of signigicant environmental impacts of the proposed development.

Plans for Laguna Robles, submitted by Larry Cummings of Carmel Valley, call for the construction of homes for resale as single family residences on 11.56 acres west of Carmel Valley Road, south of Esquiline Road and adjacent to the Carmel River.

In addition to the 22 residence units, the plans include covered parking for 22 cars, visitor parking, construction of a maintenance building, a swimming pool and five man-made lakes. Installation of roads and utilities, clearing of right-of-ways, driveways and building sites, as well as engineering of excavations and embankments for the pool and lakes will be necessary.

"The principal seismic hazard to the proposed structures would be that of vibrating ground motion, and the greatest amount of shaking would probably result from movement along the San Andreas fault, some 27 miles away," the report stated. The development site lies within one mile of both the Tularcitos fault and a parallel unnamed fault.

Additional environmental problems could result from complications with lake and well water on the site. Seepage from the lakes into the subsoil and onto the bluff overlooking the river may be environmentally dangerous, the report warned. As a precaution, the developer has proposed lining the lakes and covering the lining to prevent punctures.

Moreover, contamination of water supplied by a well located on the lower bench of the river "could result in significant adverse effects on the groundwater supply," the report concluded. While the development site is above the Corps of Engineers Study Project flood level, both the well supplying water to the lakes and a fence for the riding area are on the lower bench of the river and are subject to possible flood damage.

Increases in vehicular traffic are expected to amount to an addition of approximately 40 vehicles resulting in an increase in traffic on Esquiline Road ranging from 148 to 220 movements per day, adding roughly 4 per cent to the traffic movements (currently 4,600 per day) on Carmel Road.

Potable water for the project will be supplied by California-American Water Company and is estimated to amount to 13,000 gallons of water per day or 14 acre feet per year. The recent Public Utilities Commission ruling calling for a moratorium on new development due to possible shortage in the local water supply will not affect plans for the Laguna Robles project since an existing main already services the property.

Paso Hondo traffic conditions protested

A group of Paso Hondo neighbors met last Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Frank Dice on Paso Cresta with a representative of the county roads department to protest unsafe conditions on their neighborhod roads. Last week, Lane Wilder, 9, "coming down the Paso Cresta hill on his bicycle ran into a moving car at the "blind" intersection of Paso Cresta and Paso Hondo and suffered major injuries."

Bill Bokemeier of the Monterey County Road Department pointed out that in accordance with current policy, a stop sign would probably not be placed at an intersection having fewer than 800 vehicle movements per day. Also the county no longer places "Children playing" signs along roadsides and frowns upon private citizens' doing so. Such markers have all been replaced by a standardized "Crosswalk" sign bearing the outline of a boy and girl, which is placed near schools only

The residents told of fast-moving vehicles and dense traffic due partly to the nearby Little League ballpark, but also attributable to other Paso residents, particularly down the Paso Hondo cul de sac.

"Between four and six o'clock it's unbelievable around here," said Nancy Dice, who complained that Highway Patrol cars seemed to cruise the area only during off-peak hours.

Juveniles on motorcycles were also mentioned as a problem. A major safety hazard is caused by the fact that children from the 106 Paso Hondo area homes must walk half a mile to a mile along narrow roads to the nearest school bus stop on Village Drive.

Bokemeier suggested that the county investigate the possibility of constructing a curb at the Paso Cresta- Paso Hondo corner to prevent cars from continuing the currently common practice of cutting the curve. The result would be to force cars to slow down, and to improve sightlines by keeping cars more toward the center of the road.

Several residents suggested the construction of berms, raised humps on the road, to slow drivers on the straightaway although nobody wanted to slow down Chip Collins, Carmel Valley's fire chief, who lives on Paso Hondo, on his way to a fire.

Also suggested were "Slow curve ahead" signs, a reduced speed limit (now 25 mph) and circulation of a letter to Little League parents.

BROWNIES VISIT

Fourteen bright-eyed Brownies of Troop 2089, with their leader, Mrs. Ray Slingerland, last Friday visited the offices of the Carmel Valley Outlook at Delfino Place and Pilot Road in Carmel Valley Village.

The young ladies watched news being "justified" into column width "galleys," helped write a souvenir headline on the Varityper Headliner, and, upon seeing how as many as 200 small pieces of paper may be fitted together to "make up" a single page, understood why the editor's column is called "Bits and Pieces."

They also examined the photographic negatives made of each page as part of the offset lithographic impression is "burned" and from which the actual printing contact takes place. And they watched with fascination the intricate handiwork of Art Director Barbara Williams in fitting display advertisements together.

Each Brownie then enjoyed soda pop and cookies and had a reproduction of her hand printed on the brand new Xerox machine. Then they said "Thank you" very politely and went home.

AREA PLAN CHANGES FOR VALLEY ENTRANCE

Last week the Carmel Planning Commission recommended approval of the Monterey Peninsula Area Plan by the city council with two exceptions. These affected land at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

In the area plan, the artichoke fields south of Carmel River and ranch land above Highway 1 between the river and San Jose Creek are designated for suburban development of one to four families per acre.

The Carmel Planning Commission wants these lands preserved as greenbelt according to designations in the general plan of Carmel and its environs.

Carmel representatives to the area planning commission have consistently striven to retain the Odello and Fish property along Highway 1 as greenbelt. Last week Carmel planners reiterated this stand to the council.

The other exception to the area plan contained in the planners' report to the council concerned the Dudley Swim ranch at the entrance to the Valley. In the area this property is designated for one family per acre rural development.

DEFINITION

The definition of a small town is: where everybody knows what everybody else is doing and they all buy the weekly paper to see how much the editor dares to print.

FROM 'UNDER THE OAKS'

How do you top a story of a mountain lion? Classmates in the split second and third grade of Emily White, and in the fourth grade of ther brother, Gordon, have come to the conclusion that the prospects of doing so are extremely rare and have (with another two months of school remaining) acknowledged the White children as 1969 Share and Tell story tellers of the year!

More than one parent given a dinner time account of Ollie White stopping at the scene of a Valley Road accident and transporting a mountain lion from the wrecked car to a home in Hitchcock Canyon, tried to change the leading animal character in the story to hopefully "a large dog!" Even the faith of the biggest skeptics was shaken with the exasperated child's question, "But, Mutterr, would a big dog bite a chunk out of Mr. White's upholstery?!"

Makes for one of the best cat stories since a few years ago when a Valley rancher who had been besieged by a mountain lion depleting his band of sheep, soplighted the critter in a tree in his orchard one night and shot him. Throwing the lamb chop plump cat in the back of his pick-up, he drove down to the crowded Stirrup Cup, where he walked in and announced, "I just killed a cougar down by the Carmel Valley Inn."

He stoically withstood the ensuring barrage of jeers and cat calls until the hoped-for offer was made by the late Dean Wolters. "If you killed ANY kind of cat tonight I'll buy drinks for the whole house!"

Never was there a more complete silence than when he returned from his pick-up and made a grand entrance, Paul Bunyan-style, with the lion, which measured six feet from tip to tip and weighed 130 pounds, slung over his shoulder!

Want To Know The Truth About GROUND BEEF?

IT'S THIS:

Nobody can guarantee its exact fat content.*

There's been lots of talk lately about the fat-lean ratio in ground beef. So why not label each package: Contains X% of fat? Let us tell you why.

We've been making ground beef just about as long as anyone and we know there's no way to make two batches that are exactly alike. Two samples taken from the same batch (or even the same package) can differ in ratio of fat to lean. Even with meticulous care in selecting ingredients, there are variations in fat-lean ratio. Even with our most modern grinding and mixing equipment. Even with use of the best available fat-measuring devices.

Yet we know our customers want and expect us to provide them with a choice of ground beef products to meet their varying preferences, tastes and budgets. After long and careful consideration, we have concluded that we can best meet our customers' need for variety by offering just two ground beef products—REGULAR and PREMIUM. We make both kinds from fresh chunks of beef. We prepare both kinds with equal care to maintain the top quality which has helped earn our fine meat reputation.

Our REGULAR is made the way we believe most families prefer their ground beef. It contains enough fat to assure full juciness in the cooked meat. It makes marvelous hamburgers, meat loaves, meat balls, spaghetti sauce, Salisbury steak and other delicious dishes.

Our PREMIUM is made to please families that want a leaner ground beef. It shrinks less in cooking and makes wonderful ground beef dishes of all kinds—plain and fancy.

Why not try both kinds and see which is preferred by the folks at your house? (You might even want to make a mix with some of each.) The famous Safeway money-back guarantee applies, of course, to our ground beef as to all of our other products.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

The only clouds in the sky were multi-colored balloons released from center field, joined over the sun-drenched baseball diamond by ten pigeons, signifying the ten teams which will see action during the 1974 season at the Carmel Valley Little League Park on Paso Hondo. (If you are a real fan of the comic strip, "Peanuts," you'll understand that they were related to Snoopy's fowl friend, Woodstock.)

Open Day ceremonies were conducted last Saturday by League President Dick Klingensmith, who introduced board members, coaches, managers, teams, and pennant-carrying sponsors to the large audience of families and friends.

Rev. James Brock of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church gave the invocation, and the benediction was presented by Rev. Don Johnson of the C.V. Community Chapel. Both gentlemen formerly coached and managed Valley teams.

Toe-tapping music was played throughout the program by "The Mustangs," the Tularcitos Band, under the direction of John Farr.

Roger Sherman, a veteran supporter of Carmel Valley Little League, was thanked for his years of service to the recreation program, and he tossed the first ball to Charles Schultz' favorite dog Snoopy --(a throw which crossed the home plate well above eight feet!) The second pitch, caught by Snoopy, was presented to Roger to add to his 14-year collection of baseball memorabilia.

The first game ended in a 13-4 victory for the Volunteers, sponsored by the C.V. Fire Department, over the Will's Fargo Tigers. The 1973 champion Buckeye Wildcats enjoyed a decisive 14-7 win over the Kiwanis Indians in the second game.

Many people are to be thanked and congratulated for the successful beginning of a new season. In addition to Flo and Dick Klingensmith, special "old oak leaf clusters" go to John Scott, who obtained the racing pigeons from Jerry Artellean; Bob Casey, Andy Nottenkamper, Kathy Klingensmith, and Rogue Hattan in charge of balloons; and to all of the volunteers who assisted Mrs. Bill (Sara) Farr in the busiest spot in the Valley on Saturday -- the snack bar!

The public is always invited to attend and enjoy some outstanding baseball. No admission is charged for the games which will continue through June 29. Weekday games begin promptly at 5:30 p.m., and Saturday Farm Team play begins at 9 a.m., with the Major League games on Saturday afternoons at 1 p.m. Clip the following schedules so that you will have the times and dates of games of your favorite teams.

Father-daughter event

A double baptism! That was the memorable event which occurred Saturday, April 13, at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in Robinson Canyon with the Reverend James W. Brock officiating.

The participants in this unusual ceremony were William Price and his two-year old daughter Shellie. They, along with Mrs. Price and their other daughter Jill Denise Ryan, were guests over the Easter week end at the home of Jill's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Russell C. Ryan of Laurel Drive.

Get well

Mrs. Fred (Pat) Sorri of Valle Vista Drive and Richard Crane of Punta Del Monte in Robles Del Rio, who were both recent patients at Community Hospital, have our best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Youth Center Potluck on Saturday

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center Board of Directors cordially invite you to attend the second in the series of family potluck dinners this Saturday at 6 p.m.

A program following the dinner will be presented by Bob Johnston chairman of the Salinas Centennial, entitled "The Beginnings of Salinas." The slide show traces early Salinas history from 1810-1914 (a good 60 years before the City's incorporation).

While there is no admission charge, those planning to attend are asked to bring a dessert, salad or hot dish for the members of their family plus four -- and table service for them, also. Coffee, tea, and punch will be sold.

Fidelity Club Dinner

The monthly meeting and Potluck Dinner of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Fidelity Club will be held Thursday, May 2, at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Naslund will be host and hostess for the evening, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Heckenliable.

Program Chairman Rev. Don Johnson has a surprise in store to intrigue members and guests. Newcomers to Carmel Valley and visitors who would like to get acquainted are cordially invited to come and meet with members of this club.

Bill and Laura showed Suffolk lambs which received a gold and silver ribbon.

Last year Linda Wilson was a Merit Award winner at the 1973 Cow Palace and received $140 from Union Oil Company toward the purchase of a calf. This year she showed that calf, an Angus steer named "Tequila," which received a gold ribbon.

Three scholarships were awarded to 4-H'ers showing at the Cow Palace and Linda was lucky enough to be one of them. Se will also receive $200 from Safeway Stores when she enrolls in Cal Poly next fall.

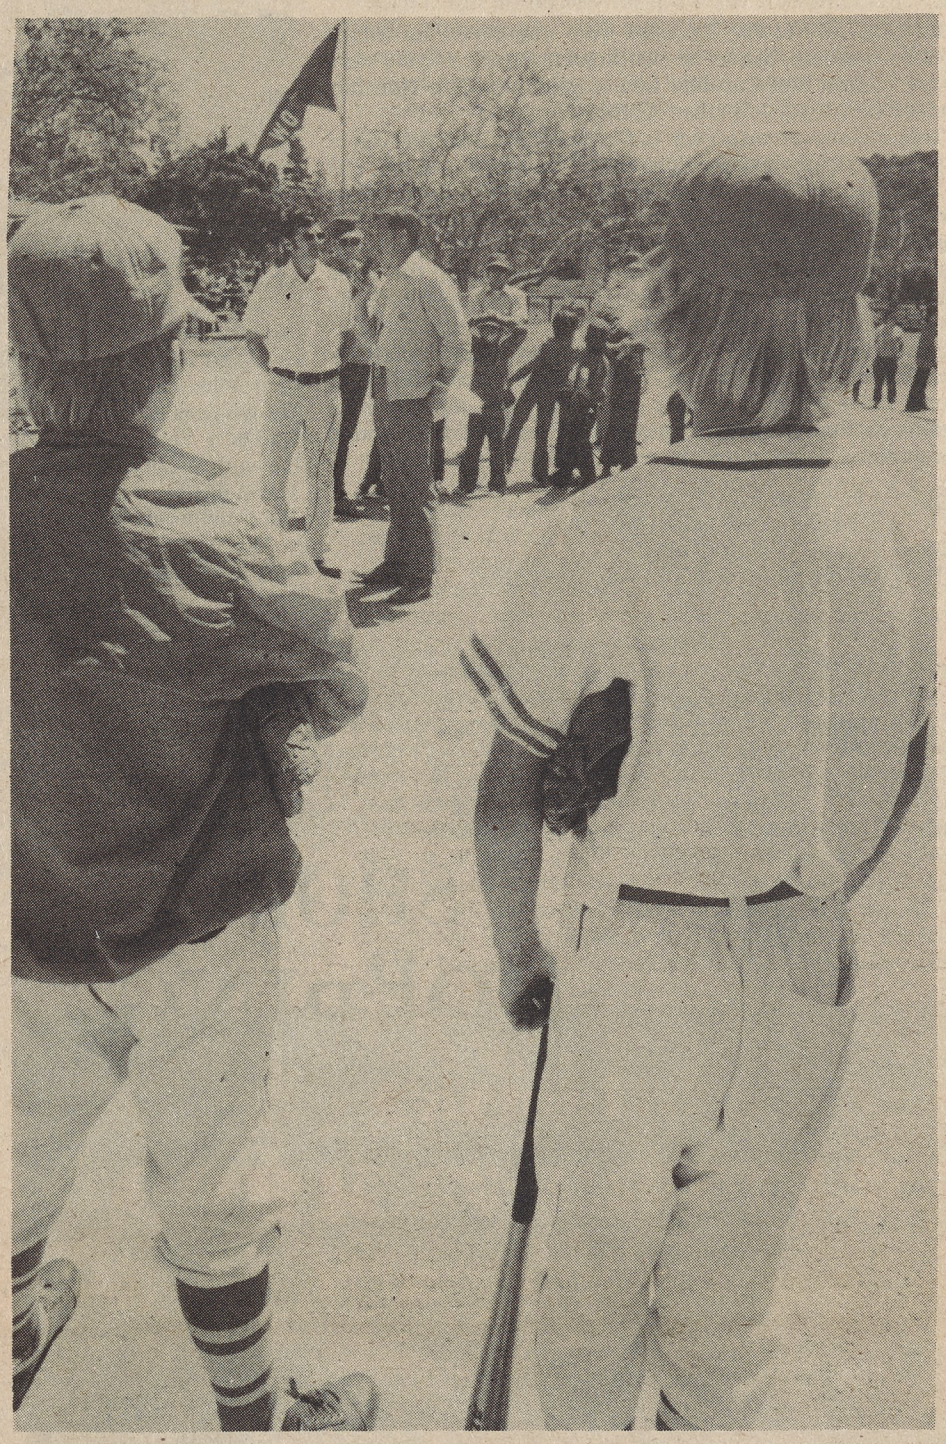
Opening Day for Carmel Valley's Little League

"STRIKE ONE!" called the umpire, as member of the Volunteers tried to make first base in Carmel Valley Little League's first game of the season featuring the Tigers vs. the Volunteers last Saturday. (Photos by Larry Crawford.)



TEAM MEMBERS and spectators alike looked on as League President Dick Klingensmith introduced Roger Sherman, who was given the honor of throwing the first ball of the day.

UNDER THE direction of John Farr, the Tularcitos School band played during the pre-game celebration.

AS PART of the traditional opening day ceremony, the American flag was raised and balloons and doves were released to the clear skies.

THE FIRST ball of the season, pitched by Roger Sherman, came in high over home plate.

Tennis Talk?

By KEN GREEN

CARMEL VALLEY Racquet Club completed its mixed doubles tournament over the weekend and early results were Peter Steffen and Caroline Leach defeating Dan Hazelton and Jill Leach 6-3, 6-2 in the "A" division.

This was some consolation to Caroline after losing to Jill in the spring singles competition. Mixed doubles is just a barrel of fun--the man runs the tread off his sneakers while the girls, bless their hearts, try desperately to keep the ball in play. You can always tell a man who has played mixed doubles all his life--he has kind of a vacant stare to his eyes, the veins stand out permanently on the sides of his neck and when he speaks, jibberish comes forth.

You can normally find them on Monday mornings at the shrink's, and let it be known that there are records on file of tennis balls being surgically removed from the heads of female partners. I have composed a little sonnet dedicated to the game of mixed doubles:

Stand a little closer to the net, my dear,
Or I will swat a tennis ball at your rear.
Move just a bit closer, please,
Then that big fellow won't hit it at your knees,
Don't close your eyes when it heads for your nose,
Don't fix your hair when the lobs in the air.
If your partner should miss, and his knees should give out-
Don't tell the girls he's a second-rate lout,
And finally, my dear, when the add comes our way,
Get off the court so I can put it away.

If you should want autographed copies of this little ditty just send three tops of a can of tennis balls to "the old mixed doubles player."

Kidding aside, mixed doubles is a tough, tactical game requiring special skills and patience, and certainly has its rewards if you persevere long enough to learn the techniques involved.

The girls had a big day at Pebble Beach last week and came out in droves for a jamboree of tennis. The weather was perfect, the tennis outstanding and everyone departed feeling they had participated in a special event. Andy Bryant deserves credit for a well run tournament.

Seventy women participated from Pacific Grove, Pebble Beach, Meadowbrook, Navy School, Carmel Valley Racquet Club and Seascape. Hats off to the girls; I don't know how their houses look but their tennis is certainly improving. The big winners in the"A" division were Jill Leach and Deanie Nail over Yoko Taylor and Lisa Hauserman 6-3, 7-5. Lisa, by the way, is a new and welcome addition to the Carmel Valley Racquet Club -- she is a fine player and should fit right into the scheme of things.

Meadowbrook Tennis Club will host a senior tournament this weekend, featuring many local senior players shooting for fun and for a ranking. If you enjoy watching long rallies and tactical tennis, come on out

SO YOU Want to Join a Tennis Club?? Fortunately on the Monterey Peninsula we have a multitiude of clubs to choose from, each offering a different perspective to the tennis affecianado.

John Gardner's Tennis Ranch is not open to the general tennis fan but if you are one of the chosen few, you will enjoy the game in its finest environment. A beautiful setting deep in the Carmel Valley with will-manicured courts surrounded by individual tennis cottages. The cuisine is probably the finest on the Peninsula, and the whole thing is held together by John Gardener, certainly the dean of the modern tennis surge.

You may find yourself in a doubles match with Ken Rosewall or Herb Caen or any number of political notables. Gardner's adult tennis clinics are tops in the land, featuring intensive instruction daily, topped off with that outstanding menu. Gardner was the innovator of the tennis camp for children on the West Coast and many have profited from his pioneering. It's very difficult to join Gardner's Ranch unless your name if Eastwood or Caen, but should you be invited for a visit, don't pass it up as it is a day well spent. (I learned all this information about John's Ranch perched on top of a tree with binoculars.)

Dennis Law's team won its first team match although Dennis lost to Rich Morris 7-5, 7-5. Dan Hazelton pulled off a big win over Rich Abramson 6-4, 6-2 although Abramson's team was victorious.

By LUCY SMITHSON

EVERYONE WANTS to be loved. Throughout the world, people are beginning to acknowledge that it's not sex, politics or religion that makes the world go round but the need to be loved. We nodded in agreement when Dr. Spock told us that babies had to have love. The hew psychotherapy, transactional analysis, calls it "strokes," but it's the same old truth.

The same need exists for horses. They much prefer a lifetime of being stroked--especially around the ears--to a lifetime of working like a horse.

The S.P.C.A. annual poster which usually pictures subjects like "A Dog's despair" or "Pity the Kitty" this year proclaims "Even Horses Need Love."

Even Shetland ponies, naughty and intractable as they may seem, would rather be loved. We know several young girls who loved ponies madly until they owned one a week or so. After a short period of disquieting discoveries by each side, the battle lines were drawn.

Ponies, whatever their age, always arrived at their new owners' showing the best manners they will ever exhibit to their owners. Very soon, sometimes on the very first day of ownership, a pony's pretty personality starts to unravel and his training begins to fall into disrepair.

If the pony's new owner is inexperienced, as are 99 per cent of new pony owners, they think things will get better, Pony just has to get used to them; they just have to practice; things are bound to improve.

Ho, Ho, Ho! Things get worse! Pony improves his work-dodging and owner, his intimidating skills. He practices "How To Look Threatening When Threatened By Work." He learns the right techniques for the Quick Nip, the Sneaky Sidle and that special art of "How To Look Like You're Going To Kick."

Each owner requires a slightly different technique. But Shetlands got to be ponies by being able to adapt to circumstance. Survival technique bred into ponies on cold Scottish islands will make most of their child-riders feel like failures in no time flat.

When the pony has intimidated his owner, the process accelerates. Things get worse and worse rapidly. But the child having begged and pleaded for his pony, is not mature enough to ask for help. So the kid hits. This helps for a while, but the pony hits back in various tricky ways.

It's relatively easy to break a pony. It's much harder to break a child who has learned to hit. He really thinks his pony is asking for it. It's news to him that the pony does not really want to be bad.

Even the most hateful of Shetland ponies would rather be loved. It's terrible to be despised even if you are despicable.

You have to teach ponies, the same as you teach small children, to be lovable.

LOVABILITY IS life's most valuable lesson. A famous English boys' school for 700 years has had the motto "Manners makyth men." None of the many generations of students and teachers at the school has seen any reason to change that motto.

The most recent American generations seem to be floundering in a sea of self-realization which obscures life's real goals. This gives expression to a lot of frantic activity of a remedial nature, such as encounter groups, state run lotteries, Rolfing, massage, Ann Landers and vitamin E.

The pendulum has shown signs lately of swinging the other way. Nursery schools are encouraging children to talk about their feelings. Kindergarten is teaching them to put away their things. But stock in good manners--they may be coming back.

Good manners for ponies never went out of style. You just have to teach them. You have to teach them very, very firmly and teach them all the time. That's all.

But for an inexperienced child to teach a pony anything from the saddle is a no-win situation. Better the child should be sent away to riding school for a year and come back experienced.

Lacking that, teaching a child to longe her pony may be part of the magic key. Longeing means going round and round in circles on the end of a rops. It's something you can make a pony do. The merry-go-round routine seems to hypnotize the pony or horse into aggreeability. There the pony is at you command and without much fuss. To the pony it seems picayune to complain about riding or driving when he's already been working for you.

Longeing defuses the dynamit, defangs the tiger, and pokes the pony's overblown personality.

To longe a pony you need a twenty-foot rope and a long willow stick. River willows are fine. Thread the rope over the pony's nose under his halter for extra control.

Rub the pony with the willow whip until he is not afraid. Holding the longe rope in your left hand and the whip in your right, go back to his left hip and push the pony away from you. Push him in the direction of his nose so he will walk forward.

Follow him a step or two tapping his behind with the stick and gradually lead him into a circle with your left hand. Keep tapping and coaxing until the pony is trotting in a circle. Don't make the circle larger than your willow whip needs to reach at first. By all means, praise him as he works.

At the beginning, most ponies will turn to face you and stop. You can gather the pony to his hip and start again three or four times. After that, when he turns to face you, smack him quite sharply low on his left side.

It is important to longe the pony at a trot slow enough to keep things cool but fast enough to prevent the pony from thinking up mischief. Watch his inside back leg and tap his behind each time it takes a short step. Otherwise the next step will be another attempt to fake out the rider. Longe in both directions fifteen minutes each day.

You may still have to gather a naughty pony in and start him on a longe circle several times before he gives up fighting and starts to work. It is perfectly legitimate to punish him for each disobedience, providing you do it immediately. You're doing him a favor after all. By training him to be good, you're making him lovable and saving him from a lifetime of hateful abuse.

7 WAYS TO PLUG FOR ENERGY CONSERVATION.

You'll save energy if you follow these suggestions:

1. Turn off all lights that are not essential.
2. Lower your furnace thermostat to 68 degrees.
3. Use full loads in dishwashers and clothes dryers.
4. Set your water heater to "normal" or 140 degrees.
5. Turn off TV sets when they're not being watched.
6. Defrost your refrigerator before frost becomes ¼" thick. Thick frost reduces your refrigerator's cooling ability and makes it run inefficiently.
7. Be sure your range and oven are turned off when not in use.

6 WAYS TO COOK WITH LESS ENERGY.

You use more energy in your kitchen than in any other room. Economize with these suggestions:

1. Make sure your oven and surface burners or units are shut off when not in use.
2. Keep oven doors completely closed until food is cooked. Every time you open the door, the oven temperature drops from 25° to 50°. (Oven door windows aid the "peek-a-boo" cook.)
3. Prepare a complete meal when using the oven—main course, vegetable and dessert. Use foods that cook well at similar temperatures. (Exception: delicate green or leafy vegetables.)
4. Use cooking utensils with flat bottoms and tight fitting covers whenever possible. Be sure pots and pans are the right size for range burners or units.
5. Bake and broil from a cold oven start. There's no need to preheat an oven.
6. Thaw frozen meats in refrigerator before cooking. Cook as soon as possible after thawing, and do not re-freeze unless meat has been cooked. A defrosted roast requires approximately 33% less cooking time than a frozen one.

These are just a few of the many ways you can conserve energy.

'Boys in the Band'

The Monterey Peninsula College drama department is preparing for "Boys in the Band," as the next production by the MPC Plays.

The all-male cast has been selected, with the lead role of "Michael" being played by Sid Cato, who also had a lead role in "Hair."The cast also includes Bob Scancarello as "Donald," Fred Bernier as "Emory," Michael King as "Bernard," Kevin Lenzen as "Hank," Stephen Barnes as "Larry," Ben Leudtke as "Harold," Mark Tanous as "Cowboy," and Chris Thomas as "Alan."

Play dates are scheduled for May 23-26; 30 and 31 and June 1 and 2.

"The Boys in the Band" is about a night in the life of Michael, who is throwing a birthday party for Harold and some of his "gay" friends.

Peter DeBono, director, says: The play is not about a homosexual, but it is a play that takes the homosexual way of life totally for granted and uses this as a valid basis for human experience.

'Owl and Pussycat'

'The Owl and the Pussycat," a 1964 Broadway hit, continues April 26 and 27, and May 3 and 4 at the Standing Room Only Theatre at Monterey Peninsula College, Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

The MPC Players production features Sid Cato of Monterey, who just finished a major role in the college production of "Hair," and Tara Pine Morganrath of Carmel, also a member of the "Hair" cast. Jane Evans, the female lead in the first SRO production, "LUV," will direct "The Owl and the Pussycat."

The SRO Theatre is located in the MPC Theatre building. Reservations are advised and and can be made by calling the MPC Theatre Box Office at 375-0455. Admission is $1.50 at the door, $1.25 in advance and $1 for students.

To help keep fit

"Physical fitness is the key to good health," according to the Monterey Peninsula College Recreation Department, which is sponsoring a co-recreational sports program for men, women, and children who wish to stay trim and participate in informal sports activities.

According to Nancy Barbour, recreation instructor, the MPC gym will be open to persons of all ages on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and a wide variety of supervised sports activities will be offered.

Basketball, volleyball, badminton, weightlifting, wrestling, softball, and football are included in the program. Admission to the gym is 25 cents per person.

For further information, contact Ms. Barbour at 375-9821, ext. 305 or 395.

'Listen to the fudge cone'

By JOAN GREGORY

Magic Carpet Players JOHN BRISTOL and Debbie Berry

"Kids' Stuff," the Magic Carpet's current production at the Hidden Valley Theatre in Carmel Valley, is not just for kids. The play is a fast-moving barrage of poems, stories and thoughts written by local children who have seen the Magic Carpet in their schools.

Kids from Carmel Woods, Forest Grove, Captain Cooper, River, Walter Colton Jr. High and J.C. Crumpton Elementary Schools have an opportunity to see their own ideas brought to life. The benefit of this kind of positive reinforcement for the young authors and their peers is obvious. But the experience opened up to adults in the audience is perhaps more moving, certainly more delightful, than anything that's hit the "legitimate" adult stage.

In dealing with themes basic to all drama, the young authors have infused their own brand of unpredictability in brief reflections of their unbounded imaginations. The honesty is unmistakable, the insights, at times uncanny.

The Magic Carpet group uses mime, dance, song, musical instruments and fun to communicate the stories written by first through ninth graders. For our part, we, as adults, have a chance to sit back and listen to what kids have to say.

In one story about a valley inhabited by "human beans," i.e., not animal or vegetable but "something between a carrot and John Wayne" (as far as "people" could figure out), leader Lucious McBean suggested that the local human beans go out and conquer other human beans. Counseled the wise man of the village, "If you conquer other human beans, you will inherit their greed and their pestilence. We already have our own." So the human beans settled for taking up a space program.

A very simple tale which reduced the entire house to grins last Saturday was about a little boy who built a robot in his garage. Scooped up by the powerful arms of the robot, played lovingly by John Bristol, the little boy cood, "I like you, Robot." Grunted the amiable machine, "I like you, too."

If the words and the plots sound simple, you're hearing it right. Enacted on the stage, such candor and focus is electrifying.

Hear a fudge ice-cream cone talk, or listen to a rock complain that he's tired of being a resting spot for a worm. Come hear and watch the children play. Come play.

"Kids' Stuff" will be performed Friday and Saturday nights at the Hidden Valley Theatre in Carmel Valley off Carmel Valley Road just before the Village. Performances will begin at 8 p.m. with a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets for "adults" are $2 and for "kids," $1. Reservations are necessary. Please call 659-3115 for reservations and information.

All Saints Raffle to be held May 4

The Annual Spring Rummage Sale and Raffle, one of Carmel's institutions, will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 4, at All Saints' Church Parish Hall, Lincoln at 9th.

A benefit for the All Saints' Churchwomen's local and missionary programs and All Saints' Day School, the event has attracted big crowds of bargain seekers and fun lovers in its past 37 years and is expected to do even better this year, according to general chairman, Mrs. George Schroeder.

In addition to the traditional rummage sale of antiques, paintings, clothing, appliances and home furnishings, the sale will also feature many new articles of clothing and other items donated by local merchants including an attractive table of fresh vegetables to be sold at pre-inflation prices.

Hot morning coffee and sweet rolls will be available to early shoppers. Free baby sitting services are to be provided for the mothers as they stroll through the 16 bargain-laden departments. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.;

The raffle tickets have been on sale by All Saints' Day School students since April 1 for $1 each. Winners of the raffle will draw from a group of 15 valuable prizes ranging from a 10-speed bicycle to a day of golf for four.

The Day School, according to Father Peter Farmer, headmaster of All Saints' Day School, is not self-supporting and depends upon grants and money raising functions such as the raffle and rummage sale, as well as tuition from students.

The committee of ladies for the Rummage Sale is Mrs. George Schroeder, general chairman; Mrs. Richard Bennett, assistant; Mrs. Jack Daly, publicity; Mrs. Donald Taugher, placement; Mrs. Martin Irwin, supplies; Mrs. Alfred Cooper, pick-up; Mrs. Elizabeth White, treasurer; Miss Barbara Kynaston and Mrs. Robert Priestley, E.C.W. president.

The committee from the Day School Parents Organization is Mrs. Philip Hambrook, president; Mrs. Jack Daly, raffle chairman; Mrs. General Ray, volunteers; Mrs. Elton Beckman, food; and Mrs. Peter Wright, liaison.

Contemporary music to be explored in Hidden Valley concert series

The Hidden Valley Music Seminars of Carmel Valley will present a series of four concerts entitled "Sunday at Six," to be given each Sunday in May at 6 p.m. in the Hidden Valley Theater on Carmel Valley Road. Concerts will be performed by Randall Bare, pianist, Alan Cox, flutist, and Cynthia Cox, cellist.

The first concert, on May 5, will be a solo recital by Bare, given as a benefit for the Hidden Valley Music Seminars. The program will consist of works by Bach, Chopin and Moussorgsky. The last three concerts will each explore different aspects of twentieth century music.

On May 12, there will be a survey of "Tonal Music in the Twentieth Century," including works by Jarnach, Berg, Martin, Bartok and Martinu. The following Sunday's concert will feature twelve-tone, serial, and free atonal music, with representative works of Schoenberg, Webern, Barbara Kolb, Mark Zuckerman, Wallace Berry and Wallingford Riegger.

The last concert of the series, on May 26, will offer "Synthesis of Tonal and Atonal Elements and New Direction." Pieces by Walter Carlos, Jolivet, Alan Cox, Davidovsky and Rorem will be included.

The series will be presented informally in an effort to give the audience a more personal experience of today's music. Each of the contemporary works will be discussed by the member of the trio, who will focus on the historical background of the composer and on the relationship of each piece to the composer's complete output. Consideration will also be given to the individual composition's emotional impact and communication.

The entire series has been created as an aid in increasing awareness in the community of the vital musical happenings of our time, so important in the continuing tradition and heritage of music.

Alan Cox, flutist of the trio and a represented composer on the series, says, "Music today is built of a new, coherent vocabulary. Contemporary music, difficult as it may seem on first hearing, is not random, but is in actuality an intensification of traditional dramatic and musical precepts."

The performers are all long-standing alumni of the Hidden Valley Music Seminars. Randall Bare, a faculty member of Hidden Valley, where he is assistant conductor of the Concert Chorale and teacher of theory and keyboard harmony, recently completed his studies at the University of the Pacific in Stockton.

At UOP, Randall Bare was conductor of the Beta Pi Chorale and of the Opera Theater, and assistant conductor of the A Cappella Choir and Pacific Singers. He was recipient of the Garrigues Fellowship while at UOP, which is awarded to the Conservatory's outstanding performance major.

A piano student of Mary Bowling of UOP and of Istvan Nadas, formerly of San Francisco State, Bare has also studied conducting with Kyung-Soo Won of the Seoul, Korea Symphony, and with Michael Zearott of Hidden Valley.

Alan Cox, who has served as principal flutist and soloist with the Hidden Valley Concert Orchestra, has studied at the Julliard School of Music in New York, where he studied flute with Julius Baker, principal flutist of the New York Philharmonic, and composition with Elliott Carter, recipient of the 1973 Pulitzer Prize in Composition. Cox, who has also studied with George Drexler, former principal flutist of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, has had extensive orchestral and recital experience in both Los Angeles and New York.

Admission to the "Sunday at Six" series is $2 per concert, with a series ticket available for $6. Reservations are strongly recommended and can be made by calling 659-3115.

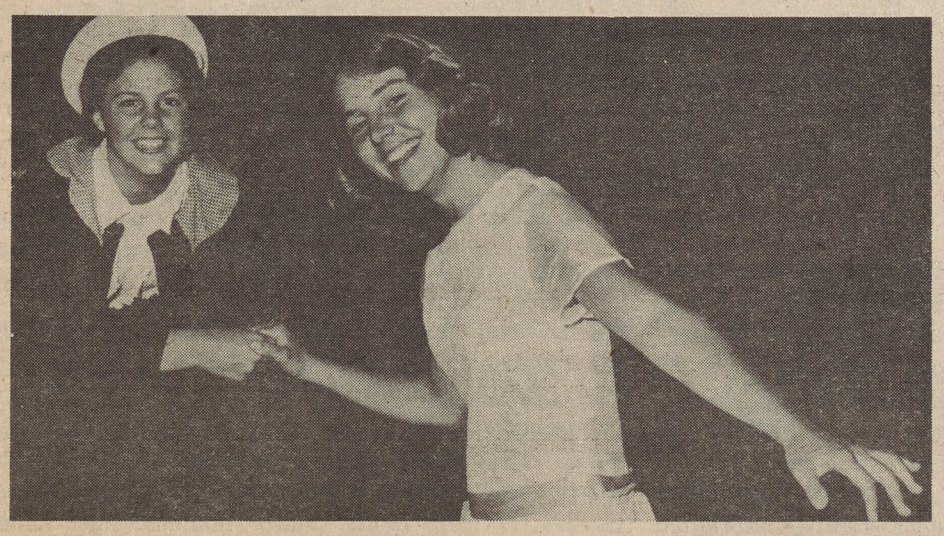
Garbo laughs!

"Garbo laughs" proclaimed the 1939 advertisements for "Ninotchka." In this marvelous comedy poking fun at the Soviet state, Greta Garbo took a holiday from her usually dramatic roles and triumphed as a subtle and accomplished comedienne.

As a stern commissar sent to France to discipline three wayward Soviets who had succumbed to the capitalistic charms of Paris, Garbo herself falls by the wayside and into the arms of Parisian sophisticate Melvyn Douglas.

Directed by the great Ernst Lubitsch, the comedy will play at the Tantamount this weekend, Friday and Saturday at 8:40 p.m.



MO HORAN as 'Baby Louise' and Andi Bialek as 'Baby June' star in Carmel High School's production of 'Gypsy,' to be presented May 2, 3 and 4.

Carmel High School to present Gypsy

"Let us entertain you...with an evening of vaudeville, burlesque nostalgia and one of America's pushiest stage mothers."

Carmel High School Drama Department will be presenting "Gypsy," the bright, gay and fast-moving musical by Arthur Laurents, Jules Styne, and Stephen Sondheim, at 8 p.m. May 2, 3 and 4 at Sunset Center in Carmel.

"Gypsy," considered one of America's most honored musicals, is based on the early life of a unique performer, Gypsy Rose Lee.

The story concerns a mother, Rose, a divorced woman from Seattle, who attempts to propel her two young daughters into vaudeville stardom. Her efforts fail when one daughter elopes with a chorus boy and the other daughter seems to get no further notoriety than as the front legs of a cow.

The latter sister's star rises, though, and she is promoted to a place in the spotlight. Permitted, apparently for the first time in her life, to wear a dress, she succeeds in convincing the audience that she can hardly wait to tear it off. She becomes Gypsy Rose Lee.

The role of Gypsy is portrayed by Cesca Lucido, who has previously been seen in Carmel High's productions of "Alice in Wonderland," "How the Other Half Loves," "Dark of the Moon," "Pygmalion," "Before Breakfast," "They Knew What They Wanted."

The demanding role of Rose, Gypsy's mother, is triple cast. Jane Porter, Sheryl Swiess, and Beth Thoreson portray the three Roses. Jan has previously been seen as Barbara Allen in the Carmel High School production "Dark of the Moon."

DISCOVER THE MONTEREY PENINSULA'S EXCITING WORLD OF DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT

Take a setting that is beautifully understated...deep green walls reflecting the surrounding Carmel pines, Carmel's gardens of flowers reproduced in drapes, paintings and table decorations; the glow of brass chandeliers, and candles in tall candelabra; then add the "jewel"..the absolutely wonderful food, and you have Simpson's award-winning restaurant.

Established in 1956 by Bob Little, Sr. and Mrs. June Simpson, the restaurant has consistently maintained the standard of excellence necessary to retain the enviable reputation of being a Carmel tradition. In an area of quality-conscious and knowledgeable residents, this is the finest of compliments.

Mrs. Simpson retired in 1967, selling her interest to the Littles. Bob Little, Jr. is now general manager. Bob received a degree in restaurant management from the Hotel Restaurant School at San Francisco City College. For several years Bob raced Porsches and was chairman of the Porsche Club of America's Concours. He and his wife, Dottie, with their two children, 9-year-old Christy and 4-year-old Michael, live in Carmel.

Bob Little, Sr. is now the "skipper" for the restaurant, taking out the fishing boat, the "Little B", every day to bring in fresh fish (salmon now) for the restaurant.

This is the season for salmon, so fresh broiled salmon with mornay sauce or lemon butter, and whole baked salmon is being featured now on both luncheon and dinner menus. The "freshly caught" taste is obvious in the delicate tenderness.

Everything is prepared in the clean, efficient kitchens: the famous rolls, the sauces (even the mayonnaise), along with the delicious cakes and pies. The Cheese Soufflé with its creamy sauce, the cucumber, vegetable or fruit molded salads, the delicately-prepared fresh vegetables are all a gourmet's delight. The luncheon menu also provides chicken or crab Louie salads mounded high inside lettuce leaves in cut-crystal bowls. The freshly-brewed Kona coffee is marvelous.

The dinner entrees feature prime meats and Monterey Bay sea foods. Buffet dinners will be served every night from Memorial Day on through the summer, and will offer four entrees, with soup or salad served at your table. The Wine Book provides a selection of fine domestic and imported wines. The house wine is also excellent.

The Intime Sandbar Cocktail Lounge opens at 11 a.m. with Ted Wasson or Lyle Ward to serve you. This is a a cozy annex to the restaurant and well known for superb cocktails!

For a luncheon, dinner or buffet unexcelled in taste, quality and beauty of presentation plus attentive service, you must try Simpson's! My compliments go directly to Head Chef, Buffalo Woolridge, his competent assistants; to the dining room manager Germaine Flamond, and to the Little family.

Simpson's is a tradition of Carmel, and will be for you once you have had luncheon or dinner there. Luncheon is served from 11:30 to 2:30, dinner from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Closed Sundays. Reservations are advisable. Call 624-1238.

Delightfully different dinners!

Organic gardener

By LEE HALL

IT'S A good idea to lay out the garden plot with the rows sloping gently down from a water source. With a south-slope garden, tall plants won't shade out smaller plants just to the north as much, but with a north-slope garden, the location of tall and short rows is even more important.

Remember that the sun gets more directly overhead as the spring goes on, and plants getting their full growth only in the middle of summer are not as likely to shade out others.

An example would be pole beans that cannot be planted until the soil becomes warm.

Plants that mature quickly like radishes or early like turnips, carrots or beets, can be planted in the row north of pole beans and be harvested before the beans create a shade problem. In fact, some bush beans produce so much faster, and quit early, that they can be planted north of pole beans for early and late green beans. The pole beans keep beaning until frost.

Ideally a good layer of compost has been turned under well before planting time and the soil has had time to settle. If the plot has weeds, they should be turned under unless they have gone to seed.

Don't turn weed seeds under because they remain viable for years just waiting to be brought back near enough to the surface to germinate. If the weeds have gone to seed, they should be pulled and composted.

If compost is cut or turned under, a period of about three weeks should be allowed before planting to allow the soil to settle.

If no compost is available at planting time, some 14-day compost can be started when the seeds are planted.

By the time the plants are at the seedling stage (two leaves in many plants), the compost will be ready to spread between the rows. Compost should be spread about two inches deep on top of the ground. This will furnish nutrients for the little plants and will prevent weeds from sprouting. Small weeds already sprouted will be covered and killed also.

Seeds should be planted in rows about twice as thick as wanted because some will not sprout, and if they are too close together they can be thinned as soon as true leaves appear (after the two-leaf stage).

Seeds should be planted about two times as deep as their broadest diameter. The exception is the cole crops, cabbage, broccoli, etc., which can be planted somewhat deeper.

The top of the garden whould be kept moist but not wet until the seedlings appear. Watering after seeding is best done with a sprinkler because the seed is very shallow and deep furrow irrigation is not needed. If compost has been used previously, crusting of the top soil will not occur and the seedlings won't have any trouble emerging.

If the garden soil has much clay and not enough compost, it will crust over and some plants won't be able to break through. The crust can be broken by very gentle and shallow raking of the surface.

NEARLY ALL plants "rest" for a few days after the first two leaves appear. During this time the roots are going down, and water should be available to six inches to one foot. Sprinkle or furrow irrigation can be used at this time.

A rule of thumb for sprinkle irrigation is that one inch of water penetrates six inches. A coffee can or any straight-sided container can be put in the sprinkle area. When there is one inch of water in the can, water has penetrated six inches underground. Two inches in the can means there's one foot underground.

In sandy soil the water goes deeper but needs to be watered more often; in clay soils the reverse is true. Compost corrects these variations in either type of soil as well as holding the water for maximum use by the plants. In other words, compost prevents waterlogging and rapid dry-out.

It is simple to determine if the garden needs water. Before the seed sprouts, dig down about a half-inch and get a sample of soil. Squeeze the sample in the palm of your hand. If water can be squeezed out, it is too wet.

If the soil crumbles when you open your hand, it is too dry. If the ball retains its shape with just a few bits crumbling off, it is just right. The same procedure works at any stage of growth except that the sample should be taken from increasing depths, down to eight or nine inches as the plant matures.

For trees, we use a soil probe, a hollow pipe that is pushed into the ground at a depth of one foot. Many tree roots are deeper than that, but we think that if the soil is dry one foot deep, it needs water.

Ceremonies honoring Buddha's birth

The Buddha was born about 2500 years ago. He taught liberation of mind, and now many Americans are turning to Buddhism in their search for freedom. Throughout the Orient the day of Buddha's birth is marked by candle-light processions, symbolically renewing the light of our minds.

On Sunday, April 28, the Sambosa Buddhist Temple in Carmel Valley will hold a day of celebration honoring Buddha's birthday in accordance with ancient tradition.

The schedule will be as follows:

3 p.m.: traditional ceremony; 4:30 p.m.: chanting; 6 p.m.: dinner; 7 p.m.: lighting of the lanterns and candlelight procession

Everyone is welcome to attend all or some of the events. There is no charge or donation asked. The Sambosa Buddhist Temple is located on Robinson Canyon Road, (624-3686).

More Organic gardener

Actually most of a tree's root activity is one or two feet underground simply because the roots must have oxygen to function (and get rid of carbon dioxide), and there isn't much air movement deep in the soil.

We mentioned that plants usually rest a few days at the two leaf stage. If they continue to rest for more than a week and the weather isn't too cold, they probably need phosphorus.

For small plots this means bone meal cut or poked into the soil. For first year organics and larger plots, ammonium phosphate can be added underground. Ammonium phosphate is much cheaper but won't last as long as bone meal. The chemical will burn so should not be closer than four inches to the plant.

Plants that start to turn green and then yellow--old leaves first-- need nitrogen. Blood meal or hoof and horn meal furnish nitrogen organically and ammonium sulfate or ammonium nitrate can be used as chemical nitrogens. Any of these can be added to the soil surface around the plants and watered in. Chemicals will burn so care should be taken to keep inches between the chemicals and plants.

'The Oaks in Carmel Valley' to open Wednesday

A grand opening for "The Oaks in Carmel Valley" northern California's first beauty and fitness resort for women, is scheduled for May 1. Located at the former Rancho Del Monte Country Club, The Oaks is designed to accomodate a maximum of 24 guests for brief programs of "revitalization, rejuvination and relaxation."

Under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Ehrmantraut of Los Altos, owners of the facility, which includes a 25-meter swimming pool, tennis courts and guest cottages, The Oaks will offer individually tailored programs to assist women in realizing personal goals, both physical and mental. Dance, rhythmic exercises, massage, manicures, pedicures and healthfully prepared meals are included in the integrated beauty and fitness plan.

Lee Ehrmantraut, who pioneered in the field of water resistance exercises after recovering from polio several years ago, taught on the Peninsula for 15 years prior to developing the heavily water exercise oriented program for The Oaks.

March of Dimes Walk-a-thon

Walkers in the counties of Monterey and Santa Cruz will stride with mighty purpose during the March of Dimes Walk-a-thon on April 27. They will be walking to help the campaign for prevention and treatment of birth defects. They will be walking for the thousands who are unable to walk, and they will be walking for personal health and satisfaction.

The 25-mile course begins at the Alisal High School parking lot and ends at the Castroville High School parking lot.

"Get yourself out, swing your arms, and breathe the fresh air -- just as doctors tell you to do," suggests Fred Rimando, chairman of the event. "You'll be helping yourself while you help some 250,000 babies who are born each year with birth defects. Test your stamina, your feet and your good will in a good, long walk. Join us."

Each person participating in the Walk-a-thon will seek contribution pledges for every mile traveled.

Money raised will help support more than 100 March of Dimes medical service programs, basic and clinical research, genetic counseling, and educational activities. For information about taking part in the Walk-a-thon, call 422-8849.

Elementary schools plan field trip to Oakland via Amtrak

Four-hundred sixty-one elementary school children from Carmel Valley and Carmel will will join in the thrill of a one-day field trip to Oakland via Amtrak next Friday.

Departing from Salinas at 9:45 a.m. on May 3, children, parents and teachers will ride the chartered train, which includes 13 coaches and a diner, to Oakland for sightseeing and then leave the city at 5:30 p.m., returning to Salinas by 8:30 p.m. While each of the six participating schools has made separate plans for the day in Oakland, most children will have an opportunity to visit the planetarium, the zoo and Golden Gate Park.

Anxiously awaiting the trip are students from All Saints' Episcopal Day, Carmel River, Carmel Woods, Carmelo, Middle and Tularcitos Schools.

Included in the group of 602 passengers will be a school nurse, as well as district coordinator for the parent volunteer aid program, Betty Bell, and school board members Pam Smith and Fran Gaver.

Planning of the railroad train ride for elementary school students was initiated last August by Phillip Smith, principal of Carmelo School. Smith has since met twice with Amtrak officials to firm up arrangements. Despite efforts to launch the trip directly from the Monterey station, the group will have to be bused to Salinas and to the Amtrak system. According to Smith, while Amtrak was willing to use the Monterey tracks, Southern Pacific refused.

The total cost of the trip is $6,900, all of which has already been paid, according to Smith. Scholarship aid has been provided so that all interested students, regardless of their financial situation, will be able to join in the fun.

Scheduled for the same day is a separate field trip for the younger children at Carmelo School to Roaring Camp in Felton on board an old steam train. A one-hour excursion on the narrow-guage tracks through redwood forests in the Santa Cruz Mountains will provide the group of 163 kindergarten, Alpha and Beta students a first hand encounter with conservation and forestry systems as well as with the operation of a train popular in the 1880s.

Those Swiss - no wars in over a century

By DONALD W. REYNOLDS

"The Swiss -- there is no getting away from it -- are outrageous people and the rest of humanity feels deep resentment towards them. They have not been involved in wars for over a century; they have no outlet to the sea, founded no empires, and still are prosperous and rich.

"The Swiss franc has the arrogance of being a much better currency than the dollar. That is why they are called dull, unintelligent, uninteresting, a nation of waiters. The truth is they have behaved like civilized people in a lunatic world, and that cannot be easily forgiven."

George Niekes thus summed up some of the specific virtues of the Swiss and the general perversity of the human race. This British humorist at least gives us a basis from which to start an analysis of this pecular kind of country.

The Swiss have a reputation for helping their neighbors -- and assisting humanity. This they do -- and the price tag is so obvious that it shows in every transaction.

Red Cross movements, world health services, international do-gooder bureaucracies, United Nations dreamers and so called peace conferences are held all over the country, almost momentarily -- all to the benefit of the Swiss tourist functionaries.

My introduction to this country approximately twice the size of the state of Massachusetts was typical. I disembarked from the Swissair DC-10 in Zurich for the airline bus to Bern, presented my ticket to the conductor and was promptly informed the bus fare was $7.50 -- to be paid in advance -- cash, no air credit cars, although Swissair operated the bus line. I paid, and during the two hour ride had the opportunity of closely checking my ticket, obviously the bus fare was included.

Sludge spill alledged

The State Regional Water Quality Control Board issued a "cease and clean up" order this week against the Carmel Sanitary District for sludge that escaped from a collecting pond March 10.

Executive Officer Kenneth Jones said an inspector from the board discovered the mishap during a recent tour of the area. The sludge allegedly overflowed from sludge ponds and spilled into the slough, continuing into the Carmel River lagoon.

Some of the sludge was partially digested (treated), and some was entirely undigested, Jones said, adding that he is considering holding public hearings on whether further action against the district is required.

"This is inexcusable, whether deliberate or accidental," Jones said.

Max Drewein said the district will comply with the request, and said the sludge will be collected and stockpiled for use as fertilizer.

"At no time did the sludge enter the Carmel River or lagoon," Drewein said.

A digester at the sanitary plant was recently cleaned of sand deposits and this created the excessive sludge collection and dike overflow, he said.

Walter Wong, director of environmental health for Monterey County, said his office is conducting an investigation of the overflow for the Regional Water Quality Control Board
